This route is located in Los Calabozos sector, 20 minutes from the center of Pucón.

We will start the tour taking the passengers and guides to the starting point, where we will all put on the necessary equipment. Then we will walk about 5 minutes to access the top of the waterfall, where the technical security talk will be held. To start the rappelling, we will assure each passenger to the mother anchorage installed in centennial trees.

The first to descend will be one of our guides, who will assist the passengers under the waterfall and will take photographs that will be share at the end of the tour.

Then, the passengers will descend the waterfall individually using two ropes. For this, each passenger will be secured to the lifeline controlled by the guide standing on top of the waterfall and will receive the corresponding instructions to regulate his own descent by the rope he can control.

Each passenger will descend with the assistance of the guides and at the end descent you will have time to visit the hidden cave, relax and enjoy the natural well created by the same waterfall.

When all the passengers have descended, the guide will return with the group to the transfer, walking uphill through a native rainforest for approximately 20 minutes. There we will be waiting for you with a delicious snack depending on the season.
